Hi everyone,

I wanted to share some huge news and thank everyone on the list who helped make it happen!

We're just hearing that the government is about to scrap plans to sell public forests.

It's been a mammoth campaign, with over 530,000 people getting involved online and on the ground across the country. We're going to keep watching to make sure they do actually scrap these plans - if they do it's a huge victory.

I've popped together some quick facts on the campaign below:

- Thousands of 38 Degrees members voted to launch the Save Our Forests campaign in October 2009 when the government first announced their plans
- Over 530,000 38 Degrees members signed the "Save Our Forests" petition
- Over 100,000 38 Degrees members emailed or called their MPs urging them to stop the forest sell off
- Hundreds of 38 Degrees members donated to fund a people-powered YouGov poll which found that 84% of the public wanted the forests kept in public hands
- Thousands of 38 Degrees members chipped in over £60,000 to pay for ads in national newspapers to highlight that 84% of the British public opposed the forest sale.
- Over 30 local groups around the country sprung up to campaign to stop the sell-off
- Over 220,000 38 Degrees members shared the campaign on Facebook

Am going to try and get some sleep now but will update the blog with more info tomorrow here: <http://blog.38degrees.org.uk/2011/02/17/victory-government-to-scrap-plans-to-sell-our-forests/>

Thanks!

Johnny

Dear Johnny,

Reading your message below, I have one small question: Did no one other organisation help at all?

Congratulations to all those with success this week, and good luck to those hoping for one next week.

As ever,
Sam
